

Children were tortured with unnecessary invasive testing...

Why did the medical profession collaborate with COVID-19 testing of children, for a disease of little or no threat to them?

ELIZABETH HART
SEP 08, 2024

♡ 54

💬 31

🔄 13

Share

⋮

A Canadian Health Services Authority video provides a graphic representation of COVID-19 testing of children.

In this still from the video, we can see the discomfort of this child, physically restrained by an adult, being tested for a disease of little or no threat to her.

This was part of the grossly disproportionate and ill-targeted response to a collection of common respiratory symptoms it was known from the beginning wasn't a serious threat to most people, *most particularly not children.

And people, including children, were even tested without symptoms - being 'asymptomatic' was also an excuse for people to be subjected to testing during the fear-mongering debacle that is 'Covid.'

In this video still, see a demonstration of the swab penetration - supposedly “way at the back of your nose” but actually depicting the tip of the swab at the back of the throat - did these people have a clue what they were doing?!

How could the medical profession collaborate with this unnecessary invasive medical intervention?

At the base level it's an example of gross over-servicing.

But most egregiously, it shows children being intimidated with unnecessary fear of disease, and an assault upon their person via the penetrating swab.

Watch the full video and consider what unnecessary anxiety and distress was imposed upon children during the manufactured COVID-19 crisis.

COVID-19 test video for children to watch

* See for example information in my email to the Chair of the Australian Technical Advisory Group on Immunisation (ATAGI) - Why does ATAGI recommend COVID-19 mRNA injections for all children aged 5 to 11 years?

54 Likes · 13 Restacks

Discussion about this post

Comments

Restacks

Write a comment...

Valerie Nelson Valerie Nelson Radical Practiti... 8 Sept 2024

Liked by Elizabeth Hart

Couldn't agree with you more Elizabeth, torture being the word. As well as children, I was always concerned about the distress being inflicted on people with dementia and other cognitive impairments. A neighbour's mother with Parkinson's disease was tested in her care home in 2020. She gagged on the swab which caused her to vomit which she then inhaled and developed aspirational pneumonia. The GP initially refused to attend at the request of staff and then when he did at my neighbour's insistence, immediately began her on end of life meds before my neighbour could intervene. She of course died

 LIKED (11)  REPLY

 SHARE

4 replies by Elizabeth Hart and others

kitten seeking answers "Kitten's Secret Garden" 8 Sept 2024 Edited

 Liked by Elizabeth Hart

#1 the PCR test is useless as a diagnostic tool (per Kary Mullis)

#2 serious brain damage can occur from the probe

 LIKED (9)  REPLY

 SHARE

13 replies by Elizabeth Hart and others

29 more comments...